AND. The general part of the Action Plan on the agenda WPS

First Introduction

CR receives its first Action Plan of the Czech Republic to implement UN Security Council Resolution no. 1325 (2000) on women, peace and security and related resolutions for the years 2017 - 2020 - (Women, Peace and Security) and related resolutions (hereinafter " WPS agenda ") for the years 2017 - 2020. the purpose of the document is to set the framework for the effective implementation of WPS agenda at national and international level. It is the Member States which are responsible for the implementation of the WPS agenda both domestically and through international cooperation. International community's efforts to develop WPS agenda is based on the philosophy inseparable connection with the principle of equality of women and men to peace and security in the world. WPS agenda is based on four pillars - prevention, participation, protection and post-conflict reconstruction. ¹

UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on women, peace and security (hereinafter "Resolution 1325") was adopted by the UN Security Council on 31. 10. 2000 as the first ever Security Council resolutions aimed at strengthening the role and participation of women in peace processes. The starting point of Resolution 1325 is that women are, on the one hand particularly hard hit by the armed conflict, on the other hand, can play a vital role in the prevention and resolution. The main objective of Resolution 1325 is therefore to increase the participation of women in decision-making processes relating to conflict prevention and resolution and post-conflict reconstruction and to prevent violations of women's rights, with emphasis on the prevention of sexual violence.

National implementation strategies for Agenda WPS are relevant for all countries, not just those in which the proceeds armed conflict. Other countries WPS agenda touches eg. As neighboring countries (conflict prevention, protection of refugees) or as donor countries involved in conflict resolution and reconstruction in post-conflict period. In addition, WPS agenda focuses not only on the situations in which it is directly threatened peace settlement, but covers the area of women's rights in its entirety and seeks to achieve a higher level of participation of women in political and public affairs in general.

¹ Prevention (Prevention) - WPS agenda is based on the assumption that women's active participation in society, including long-term consideration of women's rights (respect for human dignity, the right to education, freedom of choice of profession etc.), plays a crucial role in conflict prevention. Participation (Participation) - Women should be actively integrated into all phases of management and conflict resolution: peacebuilding, peacemaking, peacekeeping. If women are marginalized in this process, not heard the voice of half the world's population. Protection (Protection) - Besides the general requirement to respect women's rights is on the agenda WPS emphasis on protecting women and girls from gender-oriented violence. States are sharply defined against the use of violence as a gender-oriented tactics. It is necessary to provide women and children during conflicts special protection. Responsibility for the use of gender-based violence inside or outside is also on members of peacekeeping missions. Post-conflict recovery (Relief and Recovery) - Sustainable peace can only be achieved if war crimes are thoroughly investigated and the perpetrators brought to justice. It would also be working with victims and provide medical and psychological assistance in the framework of rehabilitation programs so as to mitigate the effects of war and armed conflict and, if possible, as quickly as possible to return to normal life.

Resolution 1325 is targeted to a wide range of actors; are UN member states, UN Secretary General and UN agencies. On Resolution 1325 follow Resolution 1820 (2008), 1888 (2009), 1889 (2009), 1960 (2010), 2106 (2013) and 2122 (2013) and 2242 (2015) the UN Security Council that the resolution strengthens and substantively and procedurally they specify. These resolutions represent a framework for implementing and monitoring agenda WPS.

The UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (hereinafter "CEDAW") It is considered the basic international legal document that defines discrimination against women and obliges states to take measures to eliminate it. Czech Republic is a party to CEDAW since 1993. Obligations arising from CEDAW are relevant for the implementation of Resolution 1325, both of which are complementary and mutually reinforcing in several areas, such as. for conflict prevention, gender based violence, sexual exploitation and trafficking, participation, access to justice, access to education, health services and employment, displaced persons, refugees and asylum seekers, etc.

UN Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women issued in 2013 called. General Recommendation no. 30

An essential element of the GR30 and recommendations for cooperation with civil society and nongovernmental organizations ("NGOs") to implement the agenda WPS (Art. 28).

II. Piece part of the agenda WPS AP

First Balanced representation of women and men in decision-making positions

One of the key messages contained in Resolution 1325 is a challenge to promote greater representation of women at all decision-making levels in relation to the prevention, management and resolution of conflicts.

General information on women's participation in decision-making in relation to the WPS agenda can be obtained from a review of the representation of women and men in leadership positions at the level of the relevant ministries (Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Ministry of Interior and Ministry of Defense - as of November 2016). At the head of these departments currently stands men. Men also hold the position of Secretary of State in all these ministries. At the level of deputy / deputy minister of women's representation is 12.5% for the Ministry of Defense, 12.5% for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and 25% for the Ministry of Interior. With declining levels of leadership growing proportion of women. Level

Director / Director of the representation of women in the Ministry of Defense 16.1%, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of 40.5% and 29% Ministry of the Interior.

Comparison within the European Union offers a database representation of women in decision-making positions of public administration of individual Member States. ⁴ This comparison shows that the Czech Republic in the representation of women in the leadership of the ministries concerned is below the EU average for both monitored levels of management. At the first level executives (including top management of the resort, a deputy / deputy and State Secretary / Secretary), the average proportion of women in the EU 34%, while in the Czech Republic is 26%. On the second level (including level directors / directors), the average proportion of women in the EU of 40% in the Czech Republic, 32%.

Regarding the representation of women in decision-making positions in the Army and Police of the Czech Republic, you can use data from the Czech Statistical Office publications Focus on Women and Men 2015. ⁵ These data show that women make up a total of 21,000 soldiers and female soldiers in service 13.8% (ie 2900). Compared to 1999, when women accounted for 7.4% of soldiers and female soldiers, this is a fairly significant increase. Their representation in the command and control functions is however only 5.6%. A similar situation exists within the Police of the Czech Republic. Women make up 15% of all policemen and policewomen, command and control functions, however, holds only 8.4% of women.

As mentioned above, the area of balanced representation of women and men in decision-making positions is contained in the Government's strategy, where the government of the Czech Republic has set in 2020 at least 40% representation of women and men in all decision-making positions within the government. This objective is further elaborated in Action plan for balanced representation, which contains concrete measures in this area. Measures related to the WPS agenda include mainly the following tasks:

- Analyze and define specific obstacles to balanced representation of women and men in decision-making positions and propose concrete solutions in the following areas: police, security forces.
- Take into account all relevant internal regulations of central government authorities or other appropriate documents subject balanced representation of women and men in decision-making positions and support measures.
- Staff recommended the authorities to when filling positions superiors in selecting one applicant / 3 of the applicant from the most appropriate applicants / claimants and balanced account of gender and diversity in decision-making positions.
- place Topic balanced representation of women and men in decision-making positions and information on the risks associated with gender stereotypes in this area to compulsory induction training and education for people in leadership positions and to offer this education členkám and members of advisory bodies.

A general framework for promoting greater participation of women in decision-making in relation to the agenda WPS is therefore defined in Action plan for balanced representation. For this reason, the AP for WPS agenda only specific tasks related to the activities of the ministries concerned.
